Such guidelines are described in section 3.2. The other guidelines are precatory for the board of directors. The annual general meeting in 2019 will review how the principles set out in this declaration have been complied with in 2018 and deal with the principles for 2019 in accordance with the Companies Act.

2. Main principles

Senior management remuneration in Infront and group companies shall be determined based on the following main principles:

2.1 Remuneration shall be competitive, but not leading

Senior management remuneration shall, as a general guideline, be suited to attract and retain skilled leaders in order to enhance value creation in the Company and contribute to aligned interests between management and the shareholders. Total remuneration should as a general rule be at level with remuneration for senior management in comparable industries, businesses and positions in the country in which the individual manager resides.

2.2 Remuneration shall be motivational

Senior management remuneration shall be structured to drive motivation and encourage improvements in results and shareholder value. In general, the remuneration consists of five elements: base salary, short term incentives, long term incentives, benefits in kind and pension benefits. The variable remuneration, short term and long term, is linked to value generation for shareholders over time.

The variable remuneration is determined both by achievement of individual and Company wide key performance indicators and goals. It is instrumental that the senior manager can influence achievement of the key performance indicators and goals both on an individual level and by team efforts.

The long term incentives are tied to development of the official share price in the Company and in accordance with section 3.2 of this declaration.

2.3 Remuneration shall be comprehensible and acceptable both internally and externally

The remuneration system shall not be unduly difficult to explain to the general public and should not involve disproportional complexity for the administration.

2.4 Remuneration shall be flexible, allowing adjustments over time

To be able to offer competitive remuneration the Company must have a flexible system that can accommodate changes as Company and the markets evolve.

3. Principles regarding benefits offered in addition to base salary

The base salary is the main element of the senior manager's remuneration. Additional and variable remuneration elements shall, at the time of grant, be subject to a maximum amount.

The following refers to the individual benefits that are granted in addition to base salary. Unless specifically mentioned, no special terms, conditions or allocation criteria apply to the benefits mentioned.

3.1 Additional benefits

The Company does not currently have a remuneration scheme linked to the shares in the Company and/or the share price for senior management. In order to strengthen the common interests between the senior management and other key employees and the shareholders of the Company, the board of directors is currently contemplating to implement such an incentive program in the Company. The exact structure for such program has not been determined, but the board of directors is expecting to consider remuneration in the form of inter alia shares, options and restricted share units (RSU).
